

The most recent classification system divides life into three domains, which include six kingdoms.

